Provides that no presentence report shall be prepared in such cases. Allows the defendant and the Government to present any information relevant to sentencing, without regard to the rules of evidence, but permits information to be excluded where its probative value is substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, confusion of the issues, or misleading of the jury.

Specifies mitigating factors which the defendant must establish by a preponderance of the information and aggravating factors which the Government must prove beyond a reasonable doubt.

Lists threshold aggravating factors for homicide, including that the defendant: (1) intentionally killed the victim; (2) intentionally inflicted serious bodily injury which resulted in the death of the victim; (3) intentionally participated in an act which he reasonably should have known would create grave risk of death to a person and the victim did die as a direct result of the act; or (4) attempted to kill the President of the United States.

Establishes procedures for appeal from a death sentence. Requires the court of appeals, upon considering the record and the information and procedures of the sentencing hearing, to affirm the decision if: (1) the sentence was not imposed under influence of passion, prejudice, or arbitrariness; and (2) the information supports the finding of aggravating factors or the absence of mitigating factors. Requires the court to provide a written explanation of its determination.

Requires such list to include the names of all reserve officers of that armed force who are in an active status other than officers serving on active duty or warrant officers. Requires officers to be carried on such list in order of seniority of the grade in which they are serving in an active status. Provides that such an officer's position on the active-status list shall not be affected by reason of a temporary appointment or assignment. Requires an officer to be on such list in order to be eligible for consideration for selection for promotion or for promotion.

Requires each officer whose name appears on the active-status list to be placed in a competitive category to be specified by the Secretary of the military department concerned under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense. Provides that officers in the same competitive category shall compete among themselves for promotion.

Requires the Secretary concerned to send specified information to the promotion board convened for that branch of the armed forces, including promotion limits, names of eligible officers and their services records, and special needs of that armed force to be considered when determining such promotions. Limits the modification of any information furnished by the Secretary concerned.

Requires a promotion board to recommend for promotion to the next higher grade those considered best qualified for promotion within each competitive category considered by the board or among those officers being considered for a vacant position by a vacancy promotion board. Requires a majority of the selection board to recommend an officer for promotion and a majority to find that the officer is fully qualified for promotion. Requires each selection board convened to report to the Secretary of the military department concerned a list of the names of the officers recommended by the board for promotion. Requires each such report to include a certification that the officers selected were fully considered and are the best qualified for promotion at such time. Requires each such board to also include in such report the name of each officer considered for promotion whose record indicates, to the majority of the board, that the officer should be required to show cause for retention on the promotion list. Requires the Secretary concerned, after receiving each such report from the selection board, to review such report to determine whether the board has acted contrary to law or regulations. Requires that, if the Secretary finds that the board has acted inconsistently with law or regulation, to return the report for further proceedings by the board. Requires the Secretary concerned, if a selection board report is found to be consistent with law and regulation, to transmit such report, together with recommendations, to the Secretary of Defense for transmittal to the President for approval or disapproval. Allows the name of an officer recommended for promotion by a selection board to be removed from the report only by the President. Provides that, upon approval by the President of the report, the names of the officers recommended for promotion may be disseminated to the armed forces concerned.

Outlines general rules concerning eligibility for consideration for promotion for reserve officers in the armed forces. Requires officers to have been on the active-status list at least one year prior to promotion.

Requires each officer in a promotion zone, and each officer above the promotion zone, for that grade and competitive category to be considered for promotion. Authorizes the Secretary concerned to prescribe procedures to limit the officers to be considered by a selection board from below the promotion zone to those officers who are determined to be exceptionally well-qualified for promotion. Authorizes the Secretary of the Army to consider only those determined to be exceptionally well-qualified for promotion when filling vacancies in the reserve grades of major general or brigadier general. Prohibits certain high-ranking reserve officers from being eligible for promotion by a mandatory promotion board convened under this Act. Provides for non-consideration for promotion of officers scheduled for removal from the reserve active-status list no more than 90 days after the date on which the selection board for which the officer would otherwise be eligible is to be convened.

Defines a promotion zone as an eligibility category for the consideration of officers by a mandatory promotion board, consisting of those officers on the reserve active-status list who are in same grade and competitive category and who meet certain eligibility requirements, including not having failed of selection for promotion to the next higher grade and not having been removed from a list of officers recommended for promotion to that grade. Defines officers above and below the promotion zone as having the same eligibility as officers within the promotion zone, but being either higher or lower in seniority than the senior or junior officer in such zone.

Outlines eligibility requirements, by pay grade, for reserve officers being considered for promotion, requiring a specified minimum period of service in each grade before obtaining eligibility for such promotions. Authorizes the Secretary concerned to lengthen such minimum periods of service in certain cases, or to waive such minimum requirements to ensure that certain officers have at least two opportunities for consideration for promotion to the next higher grade. Allows an officer to be placed in a promotion zone and considered for promotion far enough in advance of completing the years-of-service requirements so that, if the officer is recommended for promotion, the promotion may be effective on or before the date on which the officer will complete those years of service. Provides the effective promotion date for officers holding a permanent grade and recommended for promotion as the date on which the officer completes the maximum years of service in the service grade as required under this Act. Provides for the determination of the number of officers to be included in each promotion zone. Authorizes the Secretary of the Navy to require that the promotion zone for consideration of reserve officers in the Navy or Marine Corps Reserve on the active-status list for promotion be determined in accordance with a running mate system. Describes such running mate system as the assignment to an officer in a promotion zone of another officer as a running mate who is of the same grade and competitive category on the active-duty list of the same armed force. Makes an officer on the reserve active-status list eligible for promotion when that officer's running mate on the active-duty list is eligible for promotion. Provides for the consideration of officers below the promotion zone under such a running mate system in certain cases as determined appropriate to meet the needs of the Navy or Marine Corps Reserves.

Requires the Secretary concerned, before convening a promotion board, to determine, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Defense, the maximum number of officers in that grade and competitive category that the board may recommend for promotion. Requires the Secretary concerned to make such determination with a view to having on the reserve active-status list a sufficient number of officers in each grade and competitive category to meet the needs of the armed forces concerned for officers on that list. Outlines factors to be considered by the Secretary concerned in making such determination. Authorizes the Secretary concerned to consider from below the promotion zone officers for promotion to the next higher grade in certain cases, requiring the Secretary concerned in such case to establish the number of officers from below the promotion zone to be considered for promotion. Limits the number to be considered from below the promotion zone to ten percent of all officers in the promotion zone, except that the Secretary may increase such percentage to 15 percent if determined necessary to meet the needs of the armed force concerned.

Provides that, when the report of a selection board is approved by the President, the Secretary concerned shall place the names of all officers selected for promotion on a single list for each competitive category in the order of seniority of those officers on the reserve active-status list. Provides that officers on a promotion list shall be promoted in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Secretary concerned. Provides that a reserve in the Navy or Marine Corps with a running mate shall be promoted when the running mate becomes eligible for promotion on the active-duty list. Provides the promotional order for officers of the Army and Air Force Reserves, and for Army and Air Force general officer promotions which are the result of selections by vacancy promotion boards. Provides for the acceptance of promotion by the officer concerned and the taking of an oath of office (necessary only if the officer has not served continuously since taking his or her original oath).

Authorizes the President to remove the name of any officer from a promotion list at any time before the date on which the officer is promoted. Removes an officer from a promotion list if the Senate does not give consent to such promotion after approval by the President. Provides that any officer whose name is removed from the promotion for either of the above reasons shall continue to be eligible for consideration for promotion.

Allows for a delay in the appointment of an officer to the next higher grade if certain involuntary actions and proceedings are taking place concerning such officer, such as disciplinary actions or criminal proceedings. Requires such an officer to be retained on a promotion list and promoted if such disciplinary actions or criminal proceedings are dismissed or withdrawn. Authorizes the appointment of a promoted officer to be delayed if there is cause to believe that the officer is mentally, physically, morally, or professionally unqualified to perform the duties of the grade to which he or she is selected. Provides for reinstatement if it is later determined that such officer is so qualified. Requires any officer whose appointment is delayed for any of the above reasons to be given written notice of the reasons for such delay as soon as practicable. Provides a maximum length of delay for officers whose appointments have been delayed. Requires the officer's name to remain on the promotion list during the authorized period of delay. Requires an officer's name to be removed from the promotion list and to be considered to have failed for promotion if: (1) the Secretary concerned has not authorized a voluntary delay for such officer; (2) the Secretary concerned denies the request of an officer for a delay and the officer then declines to accept the appointment to the next higher grade; or (3) the Secretary concerned approves a delay, but at the end of the delay period, the officer declines to accept the promotion appointment.

Authorizes the President to vacate the appointment of a reserve officer to the grade of brigadier general or rear admiral (lower half) if the period of time during which the officer served in that grade after promotion is less than 18 months. Provides the grade to which such an officer will be considered to be following such vacation of appointment.

Requires the Secretary concerned to transfer or discharge (depending on the officer's qualifications) a reserve officer of the Army or Air Force serving as a general grade officer who ceases to serve in such capacity. Requires such transfer or discharge within 30 days after the officer no longer serves in such position. Provides similar transfer-or-discharge procedures for a reserve officer who is federally-recognized in the Air National Guard solely because of that officer's appointment as an adjutant general or assistant adjutant general of a State.

Outlines vacancy promotion eligibility requirements for officers in the Army or Air Force Reserve for grades below brigadier general and for brigadier general or major general. Provides that an officer who has previously failed in promotion to the next higher grade may be considered or promoted to such higher grade only if the Secretary concerned determines that such officer is the only qualified officer available to fill the vacancy position.

Authorizes the opportunity for promotion for officers of the Army or Air National Guard to fill a vacancy in the Army or Air National Guard in the jurisdiction of the vacancy. Provides that such an officer who is on a promotion list and who is appointed before the date of the promotion to fill a vacancy in the Army or Air National Guard shall be extended automatic Federal recognition in the higher grade to which such officer is promoted. Provides for Federal recognition of an officer who fails in the selection for promotion to higher grade in the Army or Air National Guard only if the Secretary concerned determines that such officer is the only qualified officer available to fill such vacancy.

Provides that if an officer on the reserve active-status list is transferred to an inactive status after having been recommended for promotion or after having been found qualified for Federal recognition but before being promoted, such officer shall be treated as not having been considered and recommended for promotion by a selection board, and may not be placed on a promotion list after returning to an active status unless he or she is recommended anew for promotion by a selection board or chosen for Federal recognition. Provides that an officer on a reserve active-status list who is placed on the active-duty list before being promoted shall be placed on the appropriate promotion list for such officer on the active-duty list. Provides similar placement on the reserve active-status list for an officer who was recommended for promotion from an active-duty list but was placed on the reserve active-status list before such promotion occurred. Provides similar procedures for reserve officers ordered to active duty or full-time National Guard duty after being recommended for promotion to fill a vacancy position or examined for Federal recognition and before being promoted to fill such vacancy.

Provides that reserve officers on the reserve active-status list who: (1) are considered but not recommended for promotion; or (2) decline to accept a promotion for which selected shall be considered to have failed for promotion. Defines situations under which an officer shall be considered to have twice failed for promotion. Directs the Secretary concerned to convene a special selection board when the Secretary determines that an eligible officer was not considered for promotion by a mandatory promotion board due to administrative error. Authorizes the Secretary concerned to convene a special selection board if the Secretary determines that an officer may have been considered but not selected for promotion due to a material error or lack of material information before the mandatory selection board. Provides that, in any case in which a special selection board is convened and such board does not recommend the officer in question for promotion, such officer shall be considered to have failed for promotion. Requires each special selection board to report to the Secretary concerned containing information on the officer and the results of the board's findings. Requires an officer whose name is placed on a promotion list as the result of recommendation for promotion by a special selection board to be appointed to the next higher grade as soon as practicable. Authorizes the Secretary of Defense to prescribe by regulation the circumstances under which special selection board procedures are to take place and time constraints for an officer to apply for such an examination. Prohibits any official or court of the United States from having jurisdiction or power over any claim based on the failure of an officer or former officer of the armed forces to be selected for promotion until the claim has either been referred to a special selection board or rejected by the Secretary concerned without consideration by a special selection board. Provides for judicial review by a court of the United States of a determination by the Secretary concerned to reject a special selection board or the determination of a special selection board to fail to recommend an officer for promotion.

Specifies the contents of such report, which include: (1) an estimate of the economic and noneconomic benefits that will be provided to each State government and all local governments in such State as a result of compliance with each such regulation during each fiscal year; and (2) proposals for legislation and administrative actions to change regulations in order to reduce compliance costs or to achieve a more favorable balance between costs incurred and benefits received. Directs the President to consider the potential for reducing State and local compliance costs by promulgating intergovernmental regulations using means such as performance standards, special provisions for small governments, marketable rights, economic incentives, compliance reforms, and simplified procedures to certify the compliance of Federal assistance recipients with Federal requirements.

Authorizes the President to delegate the responsibility of preparing such report to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget or the head of any other Federal agency. Directs the responsible official to prescribe standards to be used by agencies in estimating the compliance costs and benefits of intergovernmental regulations. Directs each agency to furnish such official with the information required in such report for the regulations administered by such agency.

Declares that a Federal agency or U.S. court may require such compliance in any fiscal year in which the Congress passes a joint resolution which waives the requirement for reimbursement of direct costs.

Requires the Director of CBO to transmit to the President and the Congress by September 1 of each year a report specifying an estimate of the total amount of additional direct costs that will be incurred in the upcoming fiscal year and next succeeding fiscal year by State and local governments in complying with each intergovernmental regulation promulgated pursuant to a significant law.

Prohibits any such stage from beginning until the Congress has authorized and appropriated funds for such stage. Requires the Secretary of Defense to include in a request to the Congress for funding for a MDAP stage specified information as to the nature and cost of such stage, including a baseline description of the development, production, and use of the system to be delivered under the program. Requires the Secretary, if he or she determines that there is a significant adverse system change during a stage of development or production, to notify the Congress of the change within ten days, at which time funds appropriated for such program may no longer be obligated. Terminates such funding prohibition at the end of a 45-day period after a new baseline description report is submitted to the Congress concerning such development or production stage as changed. Identifies a significant adverse system change as one that results in a lower capacity for the system than specified in its original report or an increase of more than five percent in the current total program cost in the description.

Authorizes the Secretary or the Secretary of the military department concerned, after the Congress authorizes and appropriates funds for a stage, to change the current baseline description with respect to a program, as long as such change does not result in a signiificant adverse system change. Directs the Secretary to notify the Senate and House Armed Services Committees of any such changes no later than ten days after such changes are made. Limits the delegation of the authority of the Secretaries to make such baseline description changes.

Allows such States to appeal the imposition of sanctions on the basis that their quality control record does not reflect a pattern of avoidable misspending of Federal funds.

Extends the AFDC quality control program to include cases involving underpayments after FY 1991. Sets forth the formula for determining the State underpayment error rate tolerance level. Requires that States set aside an amount equal to the amount by which its underpayments exceed its underpayment tolerance level and use such amount to increase AFDC payments or improve the administration of the AFDC program.

Rural Rail Service Preservation Act of 1989 - Amends Federal law to prohibit the Interstate Commerce Commission from exempting a person, class of persons, or a transaction or service from provisions authorizing rail carriers to abandon any part of their railroad lines or discontinue transportation over such lines.

Authorizes the Commission to issue a certificate of abandonment or discontinuance only if, at least one year (currently, four months) before the application was filed, the railroad line, (or portion) was identified in the rail carrier's diagram (or an amendment to the diagram) as one for which an application was anticipated.

Increases the period of time within which a person may file a protest to an application for abandonment or discontinuance by a rail carrier. Requires the Commission, upon the request of a shipper located in any community affected by a proposed abandonment or discontinuance, to provide in one or more of such communities an opportunity for a hearing on such proposed abandonment or discontinuance, unless the Commission for good cause finds that a hearing is impracticable or unnecessary.

Requires the Commission to base its determination in an abandonment or discontinuance proceeding upon financial data respecting the line or transportation proposed to be abandoned or discontinued rather than system-wide or industry-wide averages, to the extent such line-specific data are reasonably available.

Declares that the authority to abandon or discontinue under a certificate issued by the Commission shall expire: (1) two years after its issuance; or (2) 90 days after the completion of any judicial review with respect to such issuance, if later.

Requires a rail carrier to serve a request for proposal or request for offer for the transfer of a line of railroad to a transferee that is not a rail carrier upon a designated representative of the rail carrier's employees, concurrent with transmittal of such request to such transferee. Declares that such representative shall have the same opportunity to submit a proposal or offer as any other interested person. Prohibits a rail carrier from rejecting a proposal or offer solely because it is made by a labor organization. Declares that an employee performing service for a rail carrier in connection with a line of a carrier to be sold shall be entitled for selection to non-management positions on such line to the extent available. Prohibits the approval of proposed sales of certain railroad lines without prior notice to the public and a hearing. Conditions Commission approval of the sale of a railroad line on entitlement to a lump sum separation allowance of any employees who are unable to secure employment with the carrier through seniority rights and are unable to secure a position with the new owner or transferee.

Requires a transferee of a railroad line to establish initial pay rates, rules, and working conditions for the employees of the transferring rail carrier whom it intends to hire.

Authorizes the Commission to approve the acquisition of a railroad line by two carriers under common control only if it finds that the avoidance of existing collective bargaining agreements is not the principal purpose of the proposed transaction.

Clean Air Restoration Act of 1989 - Title I: General Provisions for Nonattainment Areas - Amends the Clean Air Act to require the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to publish guidelines for enhanced State monitoring of ozone, oxides of nitrogen, volatile organic compounds (VOCs), carbon monoxide, and particulate matter 10 (PM 10) and for improved inventories of emissions of such substances. Directs the Administrator to establish emissions factors for estimating emissions of such substances from stationary sources which emit less than 25 tons per year of such pollutants.

Requires State plan revisions submitted after this Act's enactment for ozone, carbon monoxide, or PM 10 nonattainment areas to provide for the maintenance of the attainment standard for 20 years after such submission. Directs the Administrator to periodically review and revise such plans, as necessary, to insure the maintenance of such standard.

Revises the boundaries of ozone and carbon monoxide nonattainment areas which are classified as Extreme or Severe and are located within Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSA) or Consolidated Metropolitan Statistical Areas (CMSA) to include the entire MSA or CMSA. Authorizes the Administrator to modify nonattainment areas classified as Moderate or serious for ozone, carbon monoxide, or PM 10 to encompass the entire MSA or CMSA if such modification is necessary to attain the air quality standard.

Requires permits issued in nonattainment areas for stationary sources to provide for: (1) quarterly reports to the permitting authority on monitoring measures; and (2) annual certifications to such authority demonstrating compliance with such permit. Prohibits the issuance of any permit unless such authority has conducted an on-site inspection of the source or emissions unit.

Allows new or modified stationary sources to comply with any offset requirement for increased emissions of any air pollutant by obtaining enforceable emissions reductions of such pollutant from other sources in the same nonattainment area. Requires such reductions to be in effect by the time such sources commence operation and to insure that the total tonnage of increased emissions is offset by a greater reduction in the actual emissions from other area sources.

Title II: Provisions Applicable to Ozone Nonattainment Areas - Classifies ozone nonattainment areas as Moderate, Serious, Severe, or Extreme, based upon the percentage by which the air quality standard is exceeded in the area. Authorizes the Administrator to adjust the classification of areas which would be classified in another category if the ozone level in such areas were ten percent greater or less. Requires the Administrator to promulgate special rules for rural nonattainment areas where area sources do not make significant contributions to the ozone concentration in such areas.

Directs States with classified ozone nonattainment areas to submit compliance strategies to the Administrator. Requires such strategies to provide for: (1) meeting an initial milestone for emissions reductions; (2) improved monitoring of ozone, oxides of nitrogen, and VOCs; (3) annual statements from owners or operators of stationary sources showing emissions of oxides of nitrogen and VOCs; and (4) annual emissions inventories to be submitted to the Administrator. Waives the requirement for owners or operators of stationary sources which emit less than 25 tons annually of VOCs if the State provides an inventory of emissions of such sources. Applies requirements for State permits with respect to air quality standards to statements for stationary sources which emit 25 tons or more annually of oxides of nitrogen or VOCs. Deems such sources to be major stationary sources. Establishes fees to be collected by States for each ton of emissions of such substances and approval procedures for compliance strategies.

Directs the Administrator to publish oxides of nitrogen and VOC emissions reduction targets for Serious, Severe, and Extreme ozone nonattainment areas. Provides for reductions or increases in such targets based upon percentage reductions or increases over a 1988 emissions inventory.

Directs the Administrator to publish a VOC emissions reduction milestone for such areas to require a 20 percent reduction in emissions within four years of this Act's enactment based upon the 1988 emissions inventory. Requires additional milestones to be achieved within eight and 12 years of this Act's enactment. Sets forth attainment dates of four, eight, 12, and 16 years, respectively, for Moderate, Serious, Severe, and Extreme areas.

Requires State implementation plans for Serious, Severe, and Extreme areas to be revised to include measures for meeting targets and milestones, conforming with compliance strategies, and attaining and maintaining revised ozone standards. Sets forth approval procedures for such plans. Requires the Administrator to audit biennially and, if necessary, revise such plans to assure compliance.

Includes specified ratios for offsets of increased emissions by new or modified sources in permit requirements for Moderate areas. Requires compliance strategies or revised implementation plans for Serious and Severe areas to contain a permit program covering the construction and operation of certain new or modified emissions units. Requires certain emissions offsets by the time such units enter operation. Provides that such plans or strategies shall: (1) contain a motor vehicle inspection and maintenance program to reduce in-use emissions of VOCs and oxides of nitrogen in Serious areas; and (2) require the use of fill nozzles in such areas which prevent vapor discharge and vehicle fuel tank overflows on nozzle disconnect. Applies the nozzle requirement only to facilities which sell more than 10,000 gallons of gasoline per month (50,000 gallons per month in the case of certain independent small business gasoline marketers). Waives such requirement when the Administrator determines that onboard emissions control systems are in widespread use throughout the motor vehicle fleet. Requires such plans or strategies to require all buses which are purchased or leased by State or local governments after January 1, 1992, (for which such governments enter into contracts or for which engines are replaced after such date) and which are used for public transportation in Serious areas to be low-emission vehicles using low-emission fuels. Requires permits for the operation of certain existing stationary sources in Serious, Severe, and Extreme areas.

Requires such strategies or plans to establish a schedule requiring at least 30 percent of the new motor vehicles registered in Severe areas by 1998 to be low-emission vehicles using low-emission fuels. Prohibits the use of an emissions reduction trading program to comply with the reasonably available control technology requirement applicable to such sources under the Clean Air Act. Requires tanks used for motor vehicle liquid fuel storage in such areas to be capable of storing methanol. Prohibits the use of Federal funds for transportation planning in such areas unless the Administrator determines that such planning uses all available techniques for reducing aggregate vehicle emissions. Requires all new motor vehicles owned or operated by persons owning or operating 15 or more vehicles in a Severe area after 1992 to be low-emission vehicles using low-emission fuels.

Provides that compliance strategies and State implementation plans for Extreme areas shall contain the same requirements as those for Severe areas. Establishes a schedule for increasing in annual increments the percentage of new motor vehicles registered in such areas which are low-emission vehicles. Requires all model year 2000 vehicles to be low-emission vehicles. Authorizes the establishment of traffic control measures during heavy traffic hours to reduce the use of high polluting vehicles in such areas. Allows an Extreme area to apply for a four-year extension of the attainment date. Directs the Administrator to grant such extension if the area is reasonably expected to meet minimum emissions reduction targets and the implementation plan is adequate to meet the attainment standard by the extended date.

Sets forth procedures to be applied in the case of noncompliance with plan and compliance strategy requirements, including emissions offsets for new or modified stationary sources or emissions units at a ratio of three to one and a prohibition on the approval of, or awarding of Federal funds for, highway projects in noncomplying areas.

Sets forth deadlines for States to demonstrate that all measures in compliance strategies have been implemented and that milestones have been met. Provides for reclassification of areas or the implementation of additional measures, including economic incentive programs in Severe and Extreme areas, if a State fails to meet emissions reduction milestones or to submit a demonstration. Directs the Administrator to establish guidelines for such programs.

Sets forth administrative procedures for making determinations, including provisional determinations, of attainment of air quality standards during a three-year period. Directs the Administrator to reclassify Moderate, Serious, or Severe areas which fail to meet attainment deadlines into the next, more stringent, category. Requires States with Extreme areas failing to meet such deadlines to submit plan revisions providing for: (1) emissions offsets at a ratio of three to one for new or modified sources or emissions units in such areas; and (2) an economic incentives program to aid in reducing the total tonnage of VOC and oxides of nitrogen emissions by at least five percent annually prior to attainment of the standard.

Establishes an ozone transport region comprised of coastal States on the east coast between Maine and Maryland and the CMSA including the District of Columbia. Authorizes the creation of additional regions, as necessary. Directs the Administrator to establish an ozone transport commission for each region. Requires each State within a region to submit to the Administrator a revised implementation plan which requires compliance with emission levels as if the region were classified as a Serious area for ozone. Exempts regions within a State that do not contribute significantly to ozone concentrations in Serious, Severe, or Extreme areas. Permits States or subdivisions to petition the Administrator for the inclusion of another State or portion of a State within an ozone transport region. Requires the Administrator to develop criteria for determining transboundary pollution for ozone. Authorizes the Administrator to pay up to 100 percent of the program costs of such commissions for two years.

Directs the Administrator to: (1) list all categories of commercial and consumer solvents, architectural and other surface coatings, pesticide applications, traffic coatings, and military specification coatings which release significant evaporative emissions of VOCs; and (2) promulgate standards biennially, for eight years, to reduce emissions from the highest priority group of such substances to the lowest feasible emissions rate.

Requires the Administrator to publish a list of the 12 categories of stationary sources for which control technologies have not been published and which make the most significant contribution to the formation of ozone air pollution. Directs the Administrator to publish guidance for such sources, including guidelines for monitoring emissions of VOCs and oxides of nitrogen, and review and, if necessary, update such guidelines. Requires owners or operators of sources emitting ten tons or more of VOCs annually to reduce such emissions by a specified percentage if guidance for such source has not been published.

Requires plans for Serious and Severe areas to include: (1) motor vehicle inspection and maintenance programs to reduce in-use carbon monoxide emissions; and (2) provisions requiring the use of oxygenated fuels for all gasoline-powered motor vehicles during periods identified as having carbon monoxide concentrations potentially in excess of air quality standards. Directs the Administrator to promulgate guidelines allowing the use of marketable oxygen credits from fuels with higher oxygen contents than required to offset the sale or use of fuels with lower contents than required. Waives the oxygenated fuel requirement upon a demonstration that the use of such fuels would prevent or interfere with an area's attainment of a standard for any other air pollutant. Requires persons selling oxygenated fuel to label the fuel dispensing system accordingly.

Sets forth requirements parallel to those for ozone nonattainment areas for: (1) permit programs and emissions offsets in Severe areas; (2) persons owning or operating more than 15 vehicles in such areas; and (3) funding for transportation planning. Requires permits for the operation of: (1) certain existing sources in Severe areas; and (2) new, modified, and existing sources of PM 10 precursors where such emissions contribute significantly to PM 10 concentrations in nonattainment areas.

Sets forth requirements parallel to those for ozone and carbon monoxide nonattainment areas for noncompliance, State demonstrations, reclassifications, and plan revisions. Allows States which have submitted plan revisions for Severe areas to apply for a two-year extension of the attainment date. Provides that three to one offset requirements shall not apply to areas granted such extensions.

Directs the Secretary to enter into contracts for the: (1) design and construction of prototypes of militarily useful merchant vessels; and (2) construction of militarily useful merchant vessels in accordance with such designs and prototypes. Sets forth vessel requirements, contractor eligibility requirements, and contract restrictions. Directs the Secretary to require that, as part of the contract, any person awarded a contract improve facilities and management systems of the person and achieve improvements in productivity and cost reductions through serial construction.

Authorizes the Secretary to provide vessel construction contractors under these provisions financial assistance in an amount equal to one-half of the costs of improvements in vessel construction equipment, systems, and techniques to be used in carrying out the contract. Prohibits the assistance unless the Secretary determines that the assistance will result in reduced total costs and increased productivity in carrying out construction under these provisions. Limits the amount of the assistance. Authorizes appropriations from the fund as necessary for constructing an average of 12 vessels in each of the FY 1989 through 2000.

Part B: Vessel Charter and Sale - Directs the Secretary to establish a program for the chartering and disposing of vessels constructed under part A of this title.

Authorizes the Secretary of Transportation (Secretary) to sell or otherwise dispose (including by transfer to the National Defense Reserve Fleet) of a vessel constructed under this title if the vessel is not under contract and no reasonable contract offers have been received, and if other conditions are met. Amends the Internal Revenue Code to add qualified vessels and qualified shipyards to the list of exceptions to the termination of the regular percentage, for purposes of determining the amount of the investment tax credit. (Current law requires that 50 percent of nonagricultural and 25 percent of certain agricultural commodities be transported on U.S.-flag commercial vessels.) States that, in authorizing a vessel which is not U.S.-registered to transport any cargo which is foreign assistance subject to the provisions being amended, the Secretary of Transportation must require that 50 percent of the cargo be transported on U.S.-registered vessels and the remainder on vessels registered in the country receiving the assistance.

Declares that it is the sense of the Congress that: (1) rates paid by the Department of Defense for the carriage of ocean-borne cargoes should fully compensate the vessel owner and could be based on established commercial rates; and (2) contracts for such carriage should be awarded, compatible with sound business practice (including cost minimization), so as to enhance the strategic sealift capabilities of the U.S.-flag commercial merchant fleet.

Prohibits the Department of Defense, subject to exception and after enactment of this Act, from entering into any contract for carriage of cargoes on a vessel which was: (1) not U.S.-built; or (2) documented in the United States after enactment of this Act.

Comprehensive Acid Rain Enforcement Act of 1989 - Amends the Clean Air Act to phase in, by 2004, specified nationwide reductions in annual emissions of sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen from fossil fuel fired generating units and major stationary source industrial process emitters.

Requires States to: (1) submit to the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency for approval plans establishing emissions limitations, compliance schedules, and other enforceable measures necessary for achieving required sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen emissions reductions; and (2) consider, and make available for public comment, cost and employment impact information regarding the various emission control options before adopting final plans. Provides for the coordination of State plans with respect to electric utilities which serve rate payers in more than one State.

Requires a State to biannually quantify its current levels of sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen emissions and report its findings to the Administrator on a source-by-source basis.

Directs the Administrator to impose a noncompliance penalty against the owner or operator of a stationary source, based on the number of pounds of excess emissions from such source, if the State in which such source is located fails to: (1) submit an implementation plan to the Administrator which is approved; or (2) enforce any requirement of its approved plan against such source.

Allows State plans to provide for trading of emission reduction requirements: (1) among electric utility units within a State; (2) between electric utilities and other fossil fuel-fired generating units within a State; and (3) between electric utility units and certain other major sources within a State.

Requires fossil fuel fired electric utility generating units to install and operate emissions monitoring for sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen. Requires utility and non-utility fossil fuel fired generating units and major sources of process emissions to maintain, and make available to the public, records on emissions and hours of operation.

Authorizes a State to extend for up to two years the date by which a stationary source which utilizes clean coal technology must meet sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen emissions reduction requirements. Excuses State failures to meet emissions reduction requirements when such failures are solely attributable to such extensions or to failure to achieve anticipated reductions from approved clean coal technology projects. Prohibits the increase of annual statewide emissions of sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen from fossil fuel fired electric utility generating units beyond the emissions level required to be achieved by 2004.

Prohibits the early termination of any fossil fuel supply contract by reason of changed circumstances wrought by this Act or State implementation plans.

Directs the Secretary of Energy and the Administrator to enter into agreements with, or provide grants to, owners or operators of major sources of air emissions to test the effectiveness and feasibility of the commercial application of clean coal technologies. Requires the utilization of technology which would be appropriate for retrofit and be no more costly in reducing sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen emissions than conventional technology. Requires the Secretary to consider whether the State regulatory authority has found the utility's application of the technology to be prudent before providing the utility with assistance. Limits Federal funding to 50 percent of project costs. Exempts projects which receive assistance for the implementation of clean coal technologies from the Clean Air Act's new source performance standards.

Authorizes appropriations for FY 1990 through 1993.

Directs the Administrator to revise the performance standards for sulfur dioxide and oxides of nitrogen from fossil fuel fired electric utility steam generating units which commence construction or modification after 1996 so that such standards reflect emissions reduction improvements.

Authorizes any person to petition the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to add a chemical to such lists. Requires the Administrator to: (1) add to the class I list any substance having an ozone depletion potential greater than .15; (2) add to the class II list any substance having a significant ozone depletion potential; and (3) assign each listed substance a numerical ozone depletion potential factor, based upon a comparison with chlorofluorocarbon-11.

Directs producers and importers of such substances to report annually to the Administrator on the production or import levels of such substances.

Makes it unlawful to produce such substances in an amount greater than 1986 levels effective 180 days after enactment of this Act. Requires a further reduction by July 1, 1993, and makes it unlawful, effective July 1, 1996, to produce such substances for other than medical purposes.

Authorizes the Administrator to promulgate rules under which persons may produce such substances in annual quantities greater than those specified under this Act if such persons obtain the rights to such production from other persons who will be subject to enforceable reductions in such substances which: (1) exceed the reduction otherwise required; (2) are greater than the annual production increase; and (3) would not have occurred in the absence of such transaction.

Makes it unlawful to produce any listed substance which yields an ozone depletion potential greater than the 1986 depletion level. Requires the Administrator to promulgate regulations requiring a 95 percent reduction in ozone depletion potential of such substances by 1997. Provides that if the Administrator fails to promulgate such regulations, it shall be unlawful, effective July 1, 1997, to produce such substances in annual quantities yielding ozone depletion potentials greater than five percent of the 1986 depletion level.

Directs the Administrator to promulgate regulations requiring producers of such substances to reduce production more rapidly if the accelerated schedule is necessary to protect human health and the environment or if the reduction is attainable, based on the availability of substitutes for such substances.

Prohibits the importation of such substances or products using such substances, unless the exporting nation has an equivalent or more stringent production reduction program. Requires the Administrator to certify national programs, such certification to be reviewed annually. Equates imports with production when determining a manufacturer's reqired reductions.

Directs the President to prohibit: (1) the export of technologies to produce class I substances; and (2) investment in facilities for producing such substances in nations which are not certified.

Requires the Administrator to: (1) review sources containing information on potential chemicals or product substitutes and alternative manufacturing processes as replacements for class I substances; (2) report such findings to the Congress; (3) require producers to provide the EPA with their unpublished health and safety studies on chemical substitutes for such substances and notify the EPA before existing chemicals are put to significant new uses as chlorofluorocarbon and halon substitutes; and (4) annually update such review and, two years after this Act's enactment, include class II substances in such review.

Directs the Administrator to promulgate rules applicable to replacements for such substances to require that processes and products that reduce overall risks to public health and the environment are used. Requires the Administrator to publish a list of prohibited substitutes and safe alternatives. Authorizes any person to petition the Administrator to add or remove a substance from such list.

Makes it unlawful, after 1992, to manufacture or import any household or commercial appliance containing such substances unless such appliances have apertures that allow the removal of such substances without loss into the atmosphere.

Prohibits, after 1990, the introduction of such substances into interstate commerce in pressurized containers weighing less than 15 pounds.

Requires the Administrator to promulgate regulations requiring the maximum feasible reductions in the use of class I substances, including measures to: (1) recover and recycle such substances in manufacturing processes and prior to disposal of products containing such substances; (2) increase the efficiency of the use of such substances; (3) provide for the use of safe alternatives; (4) achieve reductions of at least 50 percent in the use of class I substances for servicing and repairs of household and commercial appliances and in the manufacture of products in which such substances are used as solvents or blowing agents; and (5) achieve reductions, without reduced fire safety, in releases associated with discharges of such substances from fire prevention or extinguishing equipment.

Prohibits business establishments from performing services on motor vehicle air conditioners involving refrigerants, unless approved refrigerant recycling equipment is used and persons performing such services have been properly trained and certified. Applies such requirement three years after this Act's enactment to establishments which performed service on fewer than 100 air conditioners during 1990. Requires such establishments to certify to the Administrator that they meet such requirements or serviced fewer than 100 air conditioners during 1990.

Requires containers of listed substances to bear labels stating that such substances harm public health and the environment by destroying the ozone layer and disrupting the climate.

Provides that if there is an aspect of such an action for which a PHSA rule or defense does not apply, then this Act or otherwise applicable law will apply to such aspect.

Establishes a standard of manufacturer liability in product liability actions for proximate causes of harm, established by a preponderance of the evidence, which fall under the categories of: (1) negligence; (2) strict product liability; or (3) intentional wrongdoing. Provides that negligence shall be in terms of a manufacturer's failure to act as a reasonably prudent person would with respect to product design, construction, warnings, or instructions. Provides that strict liability shall be with respect to a product's being in an unreasonably dangerous defective condition in: (1) deviation from standards; (2) nonconformance with an express warranty; (3) failure to contain adequate warnings or instructions; or (4) design (in which case State law governs with respect to establishment of a prima facie case). Provides that a manufacturer's intentional wrongdoing shall be determined under applicable State law.

Sets forth a defense to manufacturer liability based on a product's inherent characteristics. Provides that a product shall not be considered to be in an unreasonably dangerous defective condition if the product aspect which allegedly caused the harm cannot be made safe and is not dangerous to an extent beyond that which would be contemplated by the ordinary person who uses or consumes the product with the knowledge common to the community as to its characteristics. Provides that such defense does not limit a manufacturer's liability solely because the risk of harm is patent, open, or obvious.

Provides that a manufacturer shall not be relieved of liability on the grounds that the product that allegedly caused the harm was unavoidably unsafe, unless the product is a drug or medical device. Provides that in product liability actions involving an improperly designed and unavoidably unsafe drug or medical device, the manufacturer's liability shall be determined under State law (and the state-of-the-art defense under this Act shall not apply).

Sets forth a state-of-the-art defense. Provides that the manufacturer shall not be liable for the design of the product if the manufacturer establishes by a preponderance of the evidence that at the time the product left its control: (1) the manufacturer did not and could not know that the product was in an unreasonably dangerous defective condition because of its design in light of knowledge reasonably available to experts; or (2) there was not a feasible alternative design that would have prevented the harm without substantially impairing the reasonably anticipated or intended function of the product (considering specified factors).

Makes the state-of-the-art defense inapplicable if the court finds, on its own or on a party's motion, that a claimant has established by a preponderance of the evidence that the product is so unsafe compared to its usefulness that it should not have been marketed.

Sets forth standards for product warnings and instructions. Provides that a product is in an unreasonably dangerous defective condition because it failed to contain adequate warnings and instructions if reasonably prudent, adequate warnings or instructions, in the light of knowledge reasonably available to experts, on the aspect (including a design aspect) which caused the harm: (1) did not accompany the product at the time it left the manufacturer's control; or (2) were not given on a timely basis by the manufacturer before the harm. Requires that specified factors be considered.

Establishes, in addition to the general standard of manufacturer's liability, a presumption of liability applicable to manufacturers of fire fighting equipment or protective clothing for harm suffered by any fire fighter performing interior structural firefighting if: (1) the harm was the result of the use of such equipment or clothing which left the manufacturer's control after the enactment of this Act; and (2) the equipment or clothing did not comply with the OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Act) fire brigade occupational safety and health standards or a more stringent State standard.

Establishes a standard of product seller liability in product liability actions for proximate causes of harm, established by a preponderance of the evidence, which fall under the categories of: (1) negligence; (2) express warranty; or (3) intentional wrongdoing. Provides that such negligence shall be in terms of a product seller's failure to exercise reasonable care with respect to the product. Provides that it shall not be such a failure based on an alleged failure to inspect a product where there was no reasonable opportunity to inspect it in a manner which would or should, in the exercise of reasonable care, have revealed the aspect which allegedly caused the harm. Provides that such product seller's express warranty must be independent of any express warranty of the manufacturer. Provides that a product seller's intentional wrongdoing shall be determined under applicable State law.

Establishes an additional product seller liability as a manufacturer. Makes the product seller liable as if it were the manufacturer if: (1) the manufacturer is not subject to service of process under the laws of the State in which the claimant brings the action; or (2) the court determines that the claimant would be unable to enforce a judgment against the manufacturer.

Sets forth a defense based on a claimant's being, as a result of the influence of intoxicating alcohol or any non-over-the-counter drug which has not been prescribed for the claimant by a physician, more than 50 percent at fault for the harm.

Reduces the manufacturer's or product seller's liability for damages by the percentage of responsibility for the harm attributable to misuse or alteration of a product.

Allows punitive damages to be awarded, to the extent provided by applicable State law, if the claimant establishes by clear and convincing evidence that the manufacturer or product seller engaged in conduct giving rise to punitive damages under applicable State law, with the following exception. Provides that a failure to exercise reasonable care in selecting among alternative product designs, formulations, instructions, or warnings shall not, by itself, constitute conduct that may give rise to punitive damages. Requires separate proceedings for punitive damages if such separate proceedings are requested by the defendant. Makes evidence in such separate proceedings which is relevant only to the claim of punitive damages inadmissible in any proceeding for compensatory damages.

Directs the trier of fact, in determining the amount of punitive damages, to consider all relevant evidence, including specified factors.

Prohibits punitive damages against a manufacturer of a drug or medical device unless the claimant establishes by clear and convincing evidence that the manufacturer or product seller engaged in conduct giving rise to punitive damages under applicable State law and unless the manufacturer engaged in: (1) intentional and wrongful withholding or misrepresentation of information, material and relevant to the harm, which either was required to be submitted before the approval of the drug or device or was related to the safety and efficacy of the drug or device after its approval, under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA) or the Public Health Service Act; or (2) a violation of the FFDCA which was material and relevant to the harm and was committed with the intent to defraud or mislead, as determined by the court and proven by clear and convincing evidence.

Prohibits punitive damages against a drug manufacturer where the harm is alleged to relate to the adequacy of the packaging or labeling of a drug required to have tamper-resistant packaging (and related labeling), unless the drug is found by clear and convincing evidence to be substantially out of compliance with Federal regulations.

Makes findings with respect to punitive damages relating to drugs and medical devices inadmissible in any criminal proceeding.

Requires that civil actions subject to this Act be brought within two years from the time the individual discovered or should have discovered the harm and its cause, with the following exception. Bars actions for harm caused by a product which is a capital good unless the complaint is served and filed within 25 years of the date of delivery of the product to its first purchaser or lessee who was not engaged in the business of selling or leasing it or using it as a component in the manufacture of another product. Applies this capital goods rule only if: (1) the court determines that the claimant has received or would be eligible to receive State or Federal workers' compensation for the harm; and (2) the harm did not include chronic illness.

Reduces any damages awarded under this Act by the amount paid in workers' compensation benefits which the claimant-employee is or would be entitled to receive. Provides for such reduction only where the employer or the employer's workers' compensation insurance carrier does not have a lien against the claimant's recovery in a product liability action against a claimant or product seller. Provides that determinations under this Act of workers' compensation benefits shall have no binding effect on, and shall not be used as evidence in, any other proceeding. Allows the claimant to stay product liability actions under this Act until the workers' compensation benefits have been determined.

Provides that the employer and its insurance carrier shall have no right of subrogation, contribution, or implied indemnity against an award made under this Act, unless the employer establishes, and the trier of fact determines, that the harm was not caused in any way by fault of the employer or a co-employee.

Prohibits any third-party tortfeasor from maintaining any action for implied indemnity or contributions against the employer, any co-employee, or the exclusive representative of the injured party. Provides that nothing in this Act shall affect any provision of State or Federal workers' compensation law which: (1) prohibits a person who is or would have been entitled to receive compensation under such law, or any derivative claim, from recovering in any other action against an employer, employer's insurer, co-employee, or exclusive representative; or (2) permits recovery based on an intentional tort by the employer or co-employee. Declares that this Act's restrictions on third-party claim tortfeasors shall not apply and applicable State law shall control if the employer or its insurer, in a product liability action subject to this Act, asserts or attempts to assert, because of provisions relating to its lack of fault under this Act, a right of subrogation, contribution, or implied indemnity against the manufacturer or product seller or a lien against the claimant's recovery from them.

Sets forth standards, procedures, and sanctions relating to frivolous pleadings under this Act.

Provides for the availability of information under this Act.

Provides that U.S. district courts shall not have jurisdiction over any civil action arising under this Act.

Requires the court in which any action is brought under this Act, upon the application of any party to the action, to refer the action to mediation, unless the court determines that the action involves novel or unsettled issues of law or is otherwise unsuitable for mediation.

Allows the court to impose fees to cover the costs of the mediation. Makes mediation statements, briefs, and summaries inadmissable in any court or any other evidentiary proceeding.

Requires the evaluation by the mediation panel to include a separate award for each claim, crossclaim, counterclaim, or third-party claim. Requires each party to file an acceptance or rejection of the panel's award, with special procedures for multiple parties.

Requires that the action proceed to trial with respect to any claim for which any party rejects the mediation award. Makes the findings, evaluations, and awards of the panel and the parties' acceptance or rejection inadmissable at trial. Requires the rejecting party to pay the opposing party's costs, upon request, unless the verdict is more favorable to the rejecting party than the mediation award.

Requires each State Attorney General and the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts to report to the Attorney General, and the Attorney General to report to the Congress regarding implementation of the mediation provisions of this Act.

Sets forth definitions under this Act. Excludes commercial loss from the definition of harm. Defines harm as any of the following caused by a product: (1) personal physical illness, injury, or death; (2) mental anguish or emotional harm caused by or causing personal physical illness or injury; or (3) physical damage to property other than the product itself.

Directs the Secretary of Commerce (the Secretary) to report to the Congress on the effect of the implementation of this Act upon the cost and availability of product liability insurance. Sets forth requirements relating to the information on which such report is based. Requires such a report annually for ten years, after which the Secretary shall report on the costs and benefits of continuing such reports and continue them only if so requested by a majority of specified congressional committees.

Directs the Secretary to report to the Congress on what information is needed to enable the Congress to measure the effect of product liability reforms on product liability actions. Requires consultation with specified entities in making such report. Requires specified information to be included in such report. Requires the report to be submitted within 18 months after the enactment of this Act.

Requires such report to assess specified factors. Requires such a report to be made biennially five times, after which the Secretary shall report on the costs and benefits of continuing such reports and continue them only if so requested by a majority of specified congressional committees.

Directs the Secretary, upon determining that sufficient data does not exist to measure the effect of product liability reform on litigation, to report on what information is needed to enable the Congress to measure the effect of product liability reforms on product liability actions. Requires consultation with specified entities in making such report. Requires specified information to be included in such report. Requires the report to be submitted within 18 months after enactment of this Act.

Declares that this Act shall not apply to any product liability cause of action arising from the use of a product before the date of enactment of this Act against a person who is a debtor in a case commenced on a specified date under bankruptcy provisions of Federal law.

Provides for the enforcement of such provision.

Requires the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), in considering applications for radio licenses, to grant licenses which further locally oriented service and which will assure provision of interference-free radio service to the public. Prohibits State plans from allocating emissions reductions to small utility power plants where the plant's costs of compliance would significantly exceed the statewide average for all such plants or result in significant adverse competitive effects on such plant.

Requires the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency to review and report to the Congress on sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxide emissions trends for sources not subject to this Act and to forecast the trend in such emissions.

Authorizes governors of certain States to submit certifications to the Administrator in lieu of compliance plans for first phase emissions reductions. Permits only certain coal-burning power plants to be certified.

Requires the Administrator, in order to help Indiana, Ohio, and Illinois meet the applicable phase one allocation, to issue an order requiring the owners or operators of the Clifty Creek, Kyger Creek, and Joppa power plants to comply with emissions standards for sulfur dioxide which are equivalent to new source performance standards for units constructed after September 18, 1978, unless such units are not appropriate retrofit candidates. Provides that compliance costs shall be borne by the Secretary of Energy and permits the Secretary to pay a share of any increased operating and maintenance costs.

Requires States to: (1) submit for the Administrator's approval State plans establishing emissions limitations, compliance schedules, and other enforceable measures necessary for achieving required sulfur dioxide emissions reductions; and (2) consider, and make available for public comment, cost and employment impact information regarding the various emissions control options before adopting final plans. Allows State plans to provide for trading of emissions reduction requirements: (1) among electric utility units within a State; (2) among electric utilities in more than one State which participate in the same power pool or are owned and operated by a single electric utility or utilities which are part of the same holding company; and (3) between electric utility units and certain other major sources within the State.

Requires utility and non-utility fossil fuel fired steam generating units and major sources of process emissions to maintain, and make available to the public, records on emissions and hours of operation.

Directs the Administrator to conduct a study of the cost effectiveness and net effects on air quality of obtaining a reduction of from two to four million tons (from 1985 levels) in emissions of oxides of nitrogen from fossil fuel fired electric utility steam generating units, considering the effects of such air pollutant on ozone formation as well as acid deposition. Requires that such study be completed by 1993 and submitted to the Congress. Directs the Administrator to: (1) establish oxides of nitrogen emissions limitations of 2,000,000 (measured from 1985 levels) tons annually for fossil fuel fired electric utility steam generating units by 1995; and (2) require States to submit plans for compliance with such limitations.

Makes it a priority to achieve emissions reductions through conservation of electricity or energy.

Authorizes a State to extend for up to three years the date by which a fossil fuel fired electric utility steam generating unit which utilizes clean coal technology must meet sulfur dioxide emissions reduction requirements. Excuses State failures to meet emissions reduction requirements when such failures are solely attributable to such extensions. Prohibits extensions to utilities which have not committed to such technology at least two years prior to the deadline for phase II reductions under this Act.

Prohibits the early termination of any fossil fuel supply contract by reason of changed circumstances wrought by this Act or State compliance plans.

Directs the Secretary to establish a Clean Coal and Climate Change Control Technology Application Program. Authorizes the Secretary, during FY 1991 through 1995, to make grants to owners or operators of fossil fuel fired steam generating units for the installation and use of clean coal technology, conservation measures, or renewable resource technology which: (1) has not been adequately applied on a commercial scale; and (2) has a reasonable likelihood of achieving more cost-effective continuous emissions reductions of sulfur dioxide, oxides of nitrogen, or carbon dioxide than any system or equipment which has been adequately applied. Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1989 - (Titles I-III: Reserved) - Title IV: Committee on Energy and Commerce - Subtitle A: Medicare - Part A: Provisions Relating to Part B of Medicare - Subpart 1: Payment for Physicians' Services and Related Professional Services - Amends part B (Supplementary Medical Insurance) of title XVIII (Medicare) of the Social Security Act to phase-in, from 1990 to 1993, Medicare payment for physician services pursuant to a fee schedule which is based upon the relative value of the resources devoted to each physician service. Directs the Secretary of Health and Human Services to adjust fee schedule amounts to take into account geographical variations in resource values and to make the transition to such payment methodology budget neutral.

Prohibits the Secretary, after 1990, from making variations in the relative value of a physician service turn on whether the physician is a specialist or such service is his or her specialty.

Requires that, after 1991, classification and coding of physician services: (1) be uniform for the same physician service in all fee schedule areas; (2) include pre-operative and post-operative physician services with related surgical procedures; and (3) differentiate evaluation and management services (primary care) on the basis of the time spent in providing different primary care services.

Directs the Secretary to report to the Congress, by July 1, 1991, on whether geographical variations in fee schedules should be based on variations in resource values among States or between urban and rural areas.

Factors malpractice expenses into the relative value of a physician service.

Phases-in, from 1991 to 1993, the limitation of a nonparticipating physician's actual charge for a service to 120 percent of the fee schedule amount for such service.

Provides for no increase in the Medicare economic index for physician services in 1990.

Makes resource-based geographical variations in Medicare payments for physician services applicable to radiology services.

Prohibits the rounding of fractional time units in calculating Medicare payments for anesthesia services. Establishes separate uniform national fee schedule conversion factors for nurse anesthetist services furnished under the direction of a physician and for other nurse anesthetist services. Prohibits Medicare payments for a suregon's direction of a nurse anesthetist. Amends the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 to expand and extend a program reimbursing certain rural hospitals for the costs of nurse anesthetists, rather than reimbursing nurse anesthetists directly.

Amends part B of the Medicare program to make payments for physician pathology services pursuant to a fee schedule and geographical area adjustments comparable to such adjustments made for other physician services.

Prohibits Medicare carriers from recovering certain part B overpayments made between July 1, 1985, and March 31, 1986.

Subpart 2: Payments for Other Services - Accelerates the use of regional rates in calculating Medicare payments for durable medical equipment. Narrows the range of acceptable purchase prices for such equipment. Covers parenteral and enteral nutrition equipment as durable medical equipment. Reduces Medicare payments for seat-lift chairs, power-operated vehicles, and transcutaneous electrical nerve stimulators. Treats: (1) power-driven wheelchairs as routinely purchased durable medical equipment; and (2) ostomy supplies as home health services which home health agencies must provide to beneficiaries who need them.

Lowers the payment ceiling for a clinical laboratory test to 95 percent of the median of all fee schedules established for that test for that setting. Allows Medicare payments for such tests to be made to the referring laboratory only if it is located in, or is part of, a rural hospital or submits payment requests for tests of which no more than 30 percent in any year are performed by another laboratory. Eliminates the requirement that a fee schedule for clinical diagnostic laboratory tests be established on a nationwide basis. Repeals the requirement that physician office laboratories performing over 5,000 tests a year be treated as independent laboratories that must meet State and local license requirements.

Reduces capital payments for outpatient hospital services provided during FY 1990.

Provides Medicare cost-based reimbursement to health centers which: (1) provide the services rural health clinics are authorized to provide; and (2) meet the requirements for receiving a grant under the Public Health Service Act or were treated, under part B, as comprehensive federally funded health centers as of January 1, 1989.

Covers services performed by a clinical social worker for the diagnosis and treatment of mental illnesses. Requires such psychologist or clinical social worker to document in the patient record that: (1) the patient has been informed of the desirability of conferring with his or her physician; and (2) the patient's physician has been notified that services are being provided to the patient or has been directly consulted concerning medical conditions that may be contributing to the patients' condition. Eliminates the dollar limitation on covered mental health services. Covers the services of a nurse practitioner working in collaboration with a physician. Makes Medicare payments for such services to the nurse practitioner's employer.

Directs the Secretary to establish at least one demonstration project applying such limitation on visits on an average basis over the aggregate total of nursing facility residents served by team members.

Covers a screening pap smear for women who have not undergone such a test during the preceding three years or for a shorter period set by the Secretary for Women at higher risk of developing cervical cancer.

Requires rural health clinics to have a nurse practitioner, physician assistant, or certified nurse-midwife available to furnish patient care services at least 50 percent of the time the clinic operates. Directs the Physician Payment Review Commission to review the adequacy and appropriateness of Medicaid payments for physician services.

Part B: Provisions Relating to Parts A and B of Medicare - Amends the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 to extend, through 1993, the application of a waiver of the Medicare requirement that health maintenance organizations (HMOs) must have an enrolled population of which not more than 50 percent are Medicare or Medicaid beneficiaries to HMOs which had a preexisting waiver of such requirement and received specified grants in FY 1987. Amends the Medicare program to limit physician charges for emergency services or out-of-area coverage provided to an HMO enrollee by a person who is not under contract with such HMO. Requires the Secretary to give HMOs annual notice of proposed changes in the methodology used or assumptions made in calculating payment rates for each class of HMO enrollee. Eliminates HMOs from the prohibition against making payments to physicians as an inducement to reduce or limit services provided to Medicare beneficiaries. Makes the per capita rate of payment for each class of HMO enrollee equal to the adjusted average per capita cost for that class, rather than 95 percent of such cost.

Amends part B (Peer Review) of title XI of the Act to require peer review organizations (PROs) to give providers whose services are denied Medicare coverage an opportunity for reconsideration of the determination before patients and organizations responsible for paying claims are notified of such determination. Gives Medicare providers an opportunity, if appropriate, to pursue a recommended course of remedial education before PROs recommend their exclusion from such program by reason of their failure to comply with program requirements. Raises the threshold below which a county's population must fall for a provider located in such county to be entitled to a pre-exclusion hearing before an administrative law judge. Sets the civil monetary penalty for a provider's failure to comply with Medicare requirements at $2,500, rather than the cost of improperly provided services.

Amends the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 to maintain the current base Medicare payment rate for kidney dialysis treatment through September 1989. Requires that subsequent changes in such rate be subject to Medicare notice and comment requirements. Amends the Medicare program to prohibit payments for dialysis services from exceeding payments for such services determined pursuant to a method based on a single composite weighted formula.

Increases the weighting factors, used in determining Medicare payments to hospitals for graduate medical education costs, for initial residencies in family medicine, internal medicine, and pediatrics. Offsets such increase by establishing a national payment limit for graduate medical education costs.

Directs the Secretary of Health and Human Services to develop and distribute to Medicare beneficiaries a summary of recommended preventive health care practices and a form for use in recording information which might assist physicians in providing appropriate care.

Part C: Other Provisions Relating to Medicare and Health-Related Programs - Amends part A (General Provisions) of title XI of the Act to provide that when a matter under part B (Peer Review) of such title or under the Medicare or Medicaid program is to be heard by an administrative law judge such judge must have been appointed by the Secretary exclusively for hearings on such matters.

Requires each State to: (1) conduct periodic educational programs for habilitation facility staff and clients regarding the requirements imposed on such facilities; and (2) provide, through the State agency responsible for the certification of habilitation facilities, for the receipt, review, and investigation of allegations of client neglect and abuse and of misappropriation of client property by facility staff. Bases habilitation facility certification on an annual, unannounced survey. Directs the Secretary to: (1) develop and test a protocol for conducting surveys; (2) establish minimum qualifications for surveyors and train them in survey and certification techniques; and (3) conduct sample surveys of habilitation facilities, within two months of State surveys, to test the adequacy of State surveys, and reduce Federal payments for State Medicaid administrative costs if such State surveys prove inadequate. Authorizes the Secretary to conduct a special survey of a facility when there is reason to question its compliance with this Act.

Gives State Medicaid fraud and abuse control units access to facility survey and certification information.

Directs the Secretary and States to apply certain other remedies where the health and safety of facility residents are not immediately jeopardized. Authorizes the imposition of civil money penalties against facilities found to be in compliance with this Act's requirements but to have been out of compliance previously. Provides that if a facility is out of compliance with any of this Act's requirements three months after having been found out of compliance with such requirements or on three consecutive annual surveys, Medicaid payments for newly admitted residents shall be denied, civil monetary penalties assessed and collected, and, in the latter case, on-site monitoring of the facility's compliance shall be established. Allows States to establish a program rewarding habilitation facilities that provide the highest quality of care to Medicaid-eligible clients.

Provides that when a facility is found to have deficiencies relating to the facility's physical plant that do not immediately jeopardize the health or safety of its clients, the State may submit to the Secretary a written plan for permanently reducing the number of certified beds in such facility within 36 months of such finding and providing services, including community habilitation and supportive services, to clients who thereby cease to receive facility services. Requires that Medicaid-eligible clients be given the option of retaining facility services.

Requires State Governors to designate areas within a State as nonattainment, attainment, or unclassifiable, with regard to air quality standards, and to submit such designations to the Administrator. Authorizes the Administrator to modify such designations, as necessary. Designates areas currently required to be listed under the Clean Air Act as nonattainment, attainment, or unclassifiable areas, as specified. Provides for the redesignation of areas, as appropriate. Prohibits the redesignation of any area from nonattainment to unclassifiable.

Directs State Governors to submit to the Administrator a list of areas designated or redesignated as carbon monoxide and ozone attainment, nonattainment, and unclassifiable areas. Designates: (1) areas identified (in 52 Federal Register 29383) as Group I areas as particulate matter 10 (PM-10) nonattainment areas; (2) counties containing sites for which air quality monitoring data show a violation of national air quality standards for PM-10 before 1989 as PM-10 nonattainment areas; and (3) areas not meeting either description as PM-10 unclassifiable areas.

Authorizes the Administrator to require States to designate areas with respect to the national air quality standard for lead.

Permits the Administrator, with respect to attainment or unclassifiable areas, to require States to submit implementation plans that provide for the maintenance of such standards. Makes technical amendments to provisions concerning plan requirements. Sets forth provisions for plan approval and revisions.

Requires plans to provide for attainment of national air quality standards in nonattainment areas within three years of this Act's enactment or within five years of a finding of substantial inadequacy.

Retains a moratorium on construction or modification of major stationary sources in certain areas until such areas meet applicable requirements concerning permit programs or attainment standards for sulfur oxides.

Repeals provisions concerning: (1) extensions of time for plan submissions and attainment dates; (2) requirements concerning parking surcharges and transportation regulations; and (3) suspensions of certain plan requirements.

Requires the Administrator to publish a triennial (currently, annual) document which sets forth applicable requirements of the implementation plan for each State.

Sets the date of attainment of national air quality standards for a nonattainment area at five years from the date such area was designated. Authorizes the Administrator to extend such attainment date, provided that such extension does not exceed 20 years. Permits up to two one-year extention to be granted to a single area upon application by a State.

Requires States to submit nonattainment plans within three years of the designation of an area. Makes technical amendments to provisions concerning nonattainment plan requirements.

Requires States containing ozone or carbon monoxide nonattainment areas, together with local officials of such areas, to review and update, as necessary, planning procedures for such areas. Authorizes States, in the case of areas included in more than one State, to implement jointly such planning procedures.

Provides that maintenance plans required as preconditions to area redesignations shall provide for maintenance of air quality standards for at least ten years after a redesignation petition is submitted to the Administrator.

Authorizes the Administrator, whenever it is determined that the interstate transport of air pollutants from one or more States contributes significantly to a violation of an air quality standard in such States, to establish a transport region for such pollutants within such States. Requires the Administrator to establish a transport commission for each such region to: (1) assess the degree of interstate transport of the pollutant or precursors to the pollutant throughout the transport region; (2) assess strategies for mitigating the interstate pollution; and (3) recommend to the Administrator such measures as may be necessary to ensure that State plans meet requirements of this Act. Permits such commissions to request the Administrator to issue a finding that one or more of the States in a transport region have inadequate implementation plans. Applies program cost limitations for interstate air quality agencies to such commissions.

Imposes the following sanctions on States which fail to comply with requirements concerning nonattainment areas: (1) a moratorium on the construction or modification of any major stationary source of the relevant pollutants in the nonattainment area, or with respect to ozone, the nonattainment area and the area within 25 miles of the nonattainment area; (2) restrictions on Department of Transportation assistance to such areas; (3) restrictions on the provision of new drinking water service in such areas; or (4) a withholding of all or part of assistance for air pollution planning and control.

Directs the Administrator to review and revise such list at least every five years by adding pollutants which present a threat of adverse human health or environmental effects. Provides that no substance or activity regulated under part B of such Act shall be subject to regulation solely due to adverse environmental effects. Permits others to petition for additions to or deletions from such list. Requires the presentation of adequate data concerning health or environmental effects for the addition or deletion of any substance to or from such list.

Limits the minimum annual emissions rate to ten metric tons for any one hazardous air pollutant or 25 metric tons for any combination of such pollutants. Authorizes the Administrator to establish an annual minimum emissions rate of more than ten metric tons for any category and pollutant, provided that a certain health threshold will not be exceeded and no adverse environmental effects will occur.

Requires emission standards for such sources to require the maximum degree of reductions that the Administrator determines is achievable. Prohibits emission standards for new sources from being less stringent than those for existing sources in the same category. Permits emissions standards for existing sources to be less stringent than standards for new sources if the Administrator determines that the level of control applicable to new sources is technically or economically infeasible for existing sources. Directs the Administrator to review such standards at least every seven years. Requires the Administrator to establish such standards within: (1) 24 months of this Act's enactment for sources of specified pollutants; and (2) three, five, or ten years of this Act's enactment, based on the quantity of the pollutant and the risk of exposure. Prohibits any consideration of cost, cost-effectiveness, economic, or energy factors or technological feasibility to determine the appropriate level of such standards.

Authorizes the Administrator to promulgate design, equipment, work practice, or operational standards for sources under this Act. Requires the Administrator to promulgate such standards when it is infeasible to prescribe or enforce an emission standard for a category of hazardous air pollutants. Permits the use of an alternative means of emission limitations if such alternative achieves a reduction equivalent to that achieved under this Act's requirements.

Authorizes the Administrator or a State with an approved program to require owners or operators of facilities which emit hazardous air pollutants to: (1) monitor the presence of such pollutant in the source emissions and ambient air; (2) install and maintain leak detection systems; and (3) keep records and report on the results of such monitoring and leak detection.

Waives emissions requirements for sources where emissions are in de minimis amounts and do not pose a risk of adverse human health or environmental effects and where control of such pollutant would require installation of additional and separate control technologies.

Makes it unlawful to construct a new source or emit any pollutant subject to standards under this Act, except in compliance with a permit issued by the Administrator or an approved State. Outlines the requirements of the permit program. Limits State permits to five-year periods.

Authorizes the issuance of a temporary permit if a source owner or operator certifies that the source will comply with applicable standards. Requires the Administrator or a State, within six months of the issuance of a temporary permit, to review the operations of such source to determine whether a full permit should be issued. Sets forth administrative provisions regarding the issuance of permits.

Requires the Administrator to conduct an urban pollution research program to include: (1) ambient monitoring for a range of hazardous air pollutants in a number of urban areas; (2) analysis to characterize the area sources of such pollution and the health risks posed by such pollutants; and (3) consideration of factors which elevate such health risks.

Directs States receiving grants for air pollution planning and control which contain a metropolitan area with over 250,000 persons to commence a monitoring program in each such area to measure the ambient concentration of hazardous air pollutants. Requires Governors of such States to report biennially to the Administrator on the results of such monitoring and to make such information available to the public.

Requires the Administrator to set aside at least ten percent of funds available for grants under this section to support State strategies to reduce risk from source emissions in urban areas. Directs the Administrator, at intervals no later than eight and ten years after this Act's enactment, to report to the Congress on actions taken to reduce risks to public health posed by pollutants from area sources. Requires such report to identify metropolitan areas which continue to experience high risks as the result of emissions from such sources.

Directs the Administrator to report to the Senate Committee on Environment and Public Works and the House Committee on Energy and Commerce on health impacts of mobile source benzene emissions and fuel and vehicle-based control strategies.

Authorizes States to develop and submit to the Administrator for approval programs for the control of emissions of hazardous air pollutants or for the prevention and mitigation of accidental releases of such pollutants. Permits the Administrator's enforcement authorities to be transferred to a State. Requires the Administrator to publish guidance for use in program development. Requires such guidance to include standards for emissions control as well as registration of facilities handling such pollutants in amounts greater than the threshold quantity. Requires the Administrator to list at least 50 substances which could be released suddenly in concentrations that may cause adverse human health effects. Directs the Administrator to update such list at least every five years.

Requires owners and operators of facilities at which such substances are present in amounts greater than a threshold quantity to conduct hazard assessments for each substance present at the facility. Directs the Administrator to publish guidance for the preparation of such assessments. Requires such assessments to include an identification of potential release sources and exposures and to be biennially updated. Directs the Administrator, to the extent practicable, to: (1) coordinate assessment requirements with requirements imposed by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, including joint promulgation of regulations; and (2) facilitate compliance with such requirements by designing generic hazard identification and assessment tools for owners and operators of hazardous substance facilities.
